

Role: Programmer – Hong Kong / Singapore

As an Epsilon International programmer, you will report to the Technical Services Manager for the Asia territory. You will be a key member of the technical consulting team ensuring that projects are delivered to clients according to scope and on time.

Primary Responsibilities:

- Set time lines for the delivery of projects
- Assist in the design of custom solutions
- Develop and test custom solutions
 - Stand alone applications
 - Custom Web User Interfaces and back-end
 - Custom User Interfaces
- Understand Epsilon's products and services portfolio

Requirements

- A demonstrated ability to work effectively on a variety of projects concurrently – in a demanding environment under tight deadlines – with a keen eye toward detail
- Good time and project management
- Able to work in a team and act with initiative
- Good written and verbal communications skills in English. A second Asian language is highly desirable
- Able to have fun while working and to integrate into a truly multicultural organisation with a strong work ethic and drive to be number 1 in the interactive direct marketing services space
- Experience in the marketing technology/interactive industries and in client interactions are a big plus.

Skills

Strong technical skills in the following languages and technologies :

- HTML, Javascript
- Microsoft SQL Server, Oracle, MySQL
- PHP, Perl, ASP

- DNS protocol

Experience or knowledge in one or more of the following languages and technologies:

- Java, JSP, ASP.NET, AJAX
- Internet protocols: SMTP, POP3, IMAP

About Epsilon International

Epsilon International (<http://www.epsilon.com/international/home.html>) is a leading provider of strategic, ROI-focused email communications solutions and marketing automation technologies. Through its combination of innovative technologies, professional services and vertical market expertise, Epsilon International helps marketers acquire, grow and retain profitable customer relationships through highly relevant and personalized email communications. The company's end-to-end suite of industry-specific products and services includes scalable email campaign technology, delivery optimization, marketing automation tools, turnkey integration solutions, strategic consulting, and creative expertise to produce email programs that generate measurable results throughout the customer lifecycle.

In the Asia Pacific region Epsilon international was created through the acquisition of the DoubleClick Email Solutions Business Unit in April 2006, and maintains offices in Beijing, Guangzhou, Hong Kong, Shanghai, Singapore, Sydney with partnerships and resellers in India and Japan.
